Introduction

The past 30 years of the HIV epidemic has demonstrated that gender inequality - and its multiple dimensions, which include unequal social, legal, and economic status, insufficient and inequitable access to health services as well as gender-based violence - is a key driver of the epidemic among women and girls. Worldwide, women and girls comprise more than half of all people living with HIV. In some regions of the world – sub-Saharan Africa and the Caribbean - women and girls, constitute more than 60% of people living with HIV. Young people are one of the groups that are most affected, with over 40% of all new HIV infections occurring among youth between the ages of 15 – 24 years, and young women being most vulnerable, accounting for 26% of all new HIV infections.

So far, the global HIV response has failed to adequately address the specific needs and rights, including the sexual and reproductive health and rights, of women and girls living with and affected by HIV. UNAIDS and UNIFEM (as part of UN Women), along with other partners, have therefore responded to a request from the UNAIDS Programme Coordinating Board to develop the UNAIDS Agenda for Accelerated Country Action on Women, Girls, Gender Equality and HIV (2010 to 2014) (hereafter referred to as the Agenda for Women and Girls). This offers a framework built around the following three recommendations;

- Recommendation 1: Generate and use evidence
- Recommendation 2: Translate political commitments into action
- Recommendation 3: Create an enabling environment

Since the launch of the Agenda for Women and Girls in March 2010, actions to address the specific needs and rights of women and girls, have has been initiated in over 80 countries. The operationalization has been undertaken by governments in partnership with networks of women living with HIV and the women's movement, as well as development partners and the UNAIDS family.

A country scorecard (Annex 2) has been jointly developed by UNAIDS and partners, to document the status of country implementation and presented to the 28th meeting of the UNAIDS Programming Coordinating Board. The scorecard includes a total of 14 strategic markers, which serve as proxies for the strategic areas included in the Agenda for Women and Girls. A traffic light approach was used, with the following colour code: i) red: not available; ii) orange: available on a project-basis; iii) green: present at national level. A detailed description of the indicators can be found in Annex 3. In addition, data has been collected on the country-level partners (Government, civil society, other development partners and United Nations), to foster mutual accountability. The presented data has been collected through the UN Joint teams, in close collaboration with national partners.

This report provided a visual of the status of country-level undertakings to date, the partners engaged in the implementation of the UNAIDS Agenda for Women and Girls, as well as the areas in need of additional support.

ANNEX 3: DESCRIPTION OF COUNTRY SCORECARD INDICATORS

PLEASE RATE THE PROGRESS OF THE NATIONAL HIV RESPONSE IN RELATION TO WOMEN, GIRLS AND GENDER EQUALITY.		RATING SCALE
					COMMENTS
Recommendation 1: Jointly generate better evidence and increased understanding of the specific needs of women and girls in the context of HIV and ensure prioritized and tailored national AIDS responses that protect and promote the rights of women and girls (knowing your epidemic and response)
1.	a. Generalized Epidemics: Age and sex disaggregated HIV epidemiological and behavioral data for the general population and key affected populations are available.  b. Concentrated Epidemics: Age and sex disaggregated HIV epidemiological and behavioral data for key affected populations are available.  (According to UNGASS guidelines, this means for countries with generalized epidemics populations: female/male, and by ten-year cohorts, e.g., 10-14, 15-24, 25-34... etc., and for key populations: male/female below 25, and above 25)	Not available	Only epidemiological or behavioral data are age and sex disaggregated	Both epidemiological and behavioral data age and sex disaggregated	If not available, please describe if missing for which population groups  Countries with concentrated epidemics, please indicate here if data on sexual partners of key affected populations is available
2.	Qualitative assessments of the social, economic and legal factors that put women and girls at risk of HIV have been conducted (situation analysis).	Not available	Assessments conducted with leadership of external partners or civil society	Assessments conducted with the leadership of the national authority (e.g. national AIDS commission/ programme of ministry of women's affairs) and full engagement of civil society
3.	The country has undertaken a gender review/ audit of the national response in the last three years (response analysis).	No review undertaken	Review undertaken with leadership of external partners or civil society	Review undertaken with the leadership of the national AIDS commission/ programme
4.	Country data available on the links between gender-based violence and HIV	Not available	Data available but not reflected in national AIDS strategic plan	Data available and reflected in national AIDS strategic plan
5.	a. In generalized epidemics, data on dedicated resources budgeted and/ or spent for women's and girls' programmes under the national strategic plan are available.	Not available	Only available for specific projects (e.g. GFATM, PEPFAR,)	Comprehensive national data from all sources available (e.g. NASA)
Recommendation 2: Reinforce the translation of political commitments into scaled-up action and resources for policies and programmes that address the rights and needs of women and girls in the context of HIV, with the support of all relevant partners, at the global, national and community level
6.	The national response funds programmes with men and boys that challenge gender inequality.	None	Only small-scale projects funded	Scaled-up, national level programmes funded
7.	The national strategic plan addresses the strengthening the bi-directional (two-way) integration of sexual and reproductive health and HIV services.	No	implementing integration plan at select sites, or only covering select themes (e.g. four prongs of PMTCT)	implementing integration at national scale
8.	The health sector has a policy addressing gender-based violence.	No policy	Gender based violence only addressed by civil society groups	Ministry of Health has a policy on gender based violence
9.	Government ministries in charge of gender and women's issues include HIV in their operational planning and budgeting.	No	HIV plans included in plans, but not budgeted	HIV plans included in plans, and budgeted
10.	Female condoms are procured and distributed	No	For key populations only	Available to all women

PLEASE RATE THE PROGRESS OF THE NATIONAL HIV RESPONSE IN RELATION TO WOMEN, GIRLS AND GENDER EQUALITY.	RATING SCALE			COMMENTS
Recommendation 3: Champion leadership for an enabling environment that promotes and protects the human rights of women and girls and their empowerment, in the context of HIV, through increased advocacy and capacity and adequate resources
11. Networks of women living with HIV participate in the formal planning and review mechanism of the national response to HIV.	No	Occasional engagement	Regular participants in formal planning and review mechanisms
12. Networks of women affected by HIV, (e.g. women living with HIV, female sex workers, female drug user, transwomen) participate in national CEDAW monitoring and reporting processes –?	No participation	Occasionally participate	Regularly participate in CEDAW processes
13. Social protection mechanisms (e.g. cash transfers and micro-finance) are inclusive of women living with HIV	No	Small-scale interventions at local levels	National social protection programmes,
14. The national AIDS plan has a dedicated budget to support the capacity of community based organisations of women, especially women affected by HIV.	No	Small-scale initiatives, not included in national strategic plan	Funds allocated from national plan
